TO THE WYOMING UNIVERSITY OF TOMORROW

He who builds not castles in the air

. . . with sincere faith and steadfast confidence in the promise its posterity holds, this 1946 WYO is dedicated.

1945-46 has been a year of transition. Emerging from the stagnant war years, we are poised affirmatively on the brink of the University's manifest destiny, vast as the Wyoming prairies.

Both individually and collectively we have accepted the initial challenge, donned seven-league cowboy boots and optimistically face the materializing educational future.

The Administration

The problems arising out of the fast changing post war era have been squarely met by the administration of the University. Veteran housing, faculty salaries and a building program are only three of the larger responsibilities shouldered by the Board of Trustees and President G. D. Humphrey. Coming from Mississippi State College, Dr. Humphrey has in his first year at Wyoming inaugurated an ambitious and efficient program.

Dean E. Luella Galliver, now on leave of absence to study at Columbia University in New York, and Miss Daisy Sechrist, acting dean of women have had to match the exuberance of the suddenly-date-supplied AWS with a disciplined understanding and handling of the situation.

Major Beverly C. Daly, dean of men, member of the University faculty since 1911, has tackled for a second time the task of converting a campus geared to wartime needs back to civilian routine—the job of coordinating older, settled GI's and seventeen year old freshman students into an integrated and compatible male student body.

Haunted by the expanding future and maltreated by the shifting present, the faculty and deans have been hard shelled toward departmental growing pains as they have accepted added burdens of crowded classrooms, too full lecture schedules and numerous advisees . . . working confidently toward completing an expanded program to accomodate the greater enrollment increase which is anticipated in the fall of 1946.

THE CAMPUS

Often called "the University," campus buildings are actually only the tangible evidence of its existence, the warehouses of instruction and attainment, connected by the grass-erasing paths of the real "college"—the student body. But the brick and mortar are indispensible and a yearbook would not be complete without the setting which the familiar buildings provide.

The University's amoeba-like eastward growth from Old Main's acre plot in 1886 to the amount of acreage now under culturation is exemplified in its three periods of construction by the library, the gymnasium and the student union. The library belongs to the "old campus" where now the cottonwoods are ancient and the students pass through on their way downtown.

The gymnasium is the guardian against the eastern movement, a reactionary who finally had to give in to Fraternity park and veteran housing. The Union introduced the modern era.

Old Main, our sexagenarian patriarch, and the fetal Oil Shale present the faith of President Nelson, Dr. Downey, Dr. Hebard and the promise of President Humphrey and Joe College for a bigger and better . . .

THE COLLEGE

Classrooms and laboratories are the focal point of the three educational forces which make up the University. Here the vigorous student body is introduced to and taught to master the cold testtubes and textbooks through the personal guidance of far-seeing professors.

Fall at WYO

"Fall comes on little frosh feet . . . ."

. . . . guides the intellectual dudes through orientation and stabilization to finally spew them out to Sundance, Pinedale or Casper at Christmas time, cocksure Cowboys. The supercilious sophomores swagger through the twelve weeks armed with haughty patience and tolerance. The upperclassman, resigned to the period of rehabilitation, concentrate on the renewing of old acquaintances.

Organizations stress "come-and-get-acquainted" parties and try competitively to be the first with their feet on the ground. Their glad handing Greeks infest the campus.

Fledgling administrators swing into the saddle and cautiously try their glittering spurs.

The Freshmen

Frosh officers: Heinie Pief, treasurer; Mike Levi, vice president; Tommy Sawyer, president; Jimmy Minick, secretary.

Product of the war, the class of '49 is an alloy of eager, scared and questioning 17-year olds and conservative, confident and serious veterans. Not again until they are third-quarter seniors will they receive as much attention. Their fall elections are the first big campus concern, their distribution among the Greeks are the upperclassmen's big worry, and their bewilderment and pit-falls, the brain men's burden.

Getting their first taste of the political set-up, the frosh came through with a qualified quartet of officers.

The Sophomores

Now completely oriented, completely enthusiastic students, the sophomores are settling down in the collegiate saddle eagerly anticipating the time when they can sieze the reins from the retiring juniors and seniors.

This year a busy sophomore class sponsored the traditional Powder River Ball, elected from their ranks three campus queens, Martha Ballantye, Engineer's Queen, Ruth Brinton, Homecoming Queen and Becky Taggart, popularity winner; and were proclaimed champs of the interclass athletic competition.

The Student Senate

Symbolic of the transition year was the handing over of the student senate president's gavel to Bob Burwell by Lyell Knight in December.

Gavel-hander Knight ably showed how a women-packed ASUW should be managed. Gavel-catcher Burwell, with ample experience, has proven equal to the top administrative task.

It's all yours, Bob!

Wyoming's student body Senate is one of the most potent student administrative bodies in college education. Organized in 1938 to plan the financing of the student Union, it has developed a reputation of vigorous action in the conducting of student body affairs.

To the Senate comes every type of legislation, from the initiation and supervision of all student extra-curricular activities to the placing of beanies on freshmen heads.

Senate committees handle most of the legislative dirty work. Although the more important committees (executive, finance, Union management, general activities, publication and social) have administrative and faculty representatives for stability and experience, only students may sit in on senate meetings without special permission of that body.

Democratically representative, the 23 members of the senate typify the views of the coed, the "sarge" and the student-at-large.

Student Manager Warburton "at play."

Business Manager Adams

Ethel Sorgen and Ruth Adams, scribe and financier respectively, have produced the campus rag.

Sarge is a major in journalism and plans to keep the printer's ink she picked up in the local back shop on her hands.

Ruth has pounded away at the advertising. Facing the dust and cinders of downtown Laramie, she makes her weekly round of every advertiser or prospective patron . . . doing well her job of keeping the BI off the financial rocks.

The Branding Iron

Thursday morning the eight-page tabloid hits the Union lobby, and is quickly perused at the fountain or in the lounge. Perhaps a couple of hundred even reach the hometowns via laundry bags or rolled and stamped. The staff's competent coverage of campus life and campus opinions provide ample circling material for the mindful parents. With Lyons on society, Baker on sports and a variety of columnists, the B. I. makes the news informative and enjoyable reading.

Bernard Cole, news editor; Peggy Varvandakis, society editor; Lois Stockhouse, reporter; and James Baker, sports.

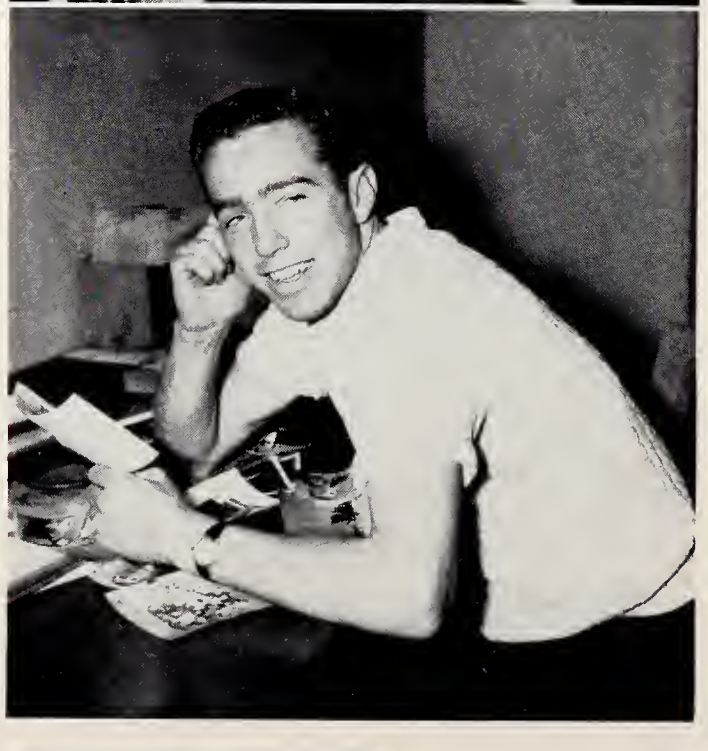
The WYO

"Kit" Carson, Editor

Joan Hagist, business manager



Vern Vivion, Photographer

According to a vicious yearbook tradition, the WYO did not get earnestly under way until into winter quarter. The senate reorganized the executives, choosing new editor, Leota Carson to replace Patricia Tobin Moses, (who withdrew from school to join her husband); and Joan Hagist was chosen as the new business manager.

A staff was organized, deadlines set and the box like office soon became a jumble of glossy prints and advertising correspondence. Out of the seeming confusion arose a dummy, and as combined ideas developed, the first inklings of the finished product began to take shape.

Racing against the express train editors call a "deadline" Carson haunted the campus for Vivion and pleaded for finished copy, "at least the first 32 pages."

Uncooperative to say the least, the uncompromising deadline reared its demanding head at the same time the term papers and finals did the same. But with true journalistic composure, Carson poured editing oil on the troubled pages and you have in your hands the 1946 WYO . . . Wrols.

Assistant editor Wrols and artist, Dorothy Mackay.

Indispensable aides in the publication of the '46 yearbook were Merald Wrolstad, assistant editor; author of the majority of body copy in the annual; Dorothy Mackay, who designed the cover, frontispiece and divisional pages; Ann Schmidt, assistant business manager; Mike Levi, organizations editor; Jim Baker, sports editor.

Other valuable members of the editorial staff included Becky Taggart, Carol Clark, Betty Lou Smith, Bernard Cole, Lois Barnard, Carol Nottage, Peggy Purdy.

Members of the business staff were Mary Borchsenius, Nancy Marston, Corrine Heard, Joan Cobb, Maureen Smith, Jerry Cox, Glenna Sorenson, Betty Ellen Hill, Betty Lou Jones, Janet Watt, Norma Cash.

The Wyo is published annually by associated students of the University, and funds are raised by the sale of annuals and by advertising revenue.

A. W. S. Board

The Associated Women Students was founded on this campus in 1920 and, since then, has become a member of the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students. Every woman student is automatically a member of AWS and exercises her privilege of self-government through the AWS Board. This board consists of representatives from the various women's dorms, houses, and honoraries, such as Spurs, Big Sisters, and Mortar Board, which are sponsored by the Associated Women Students.

The rules and regulations as administered by the AWS Board have been formulated by the women students themselves, for their own protection and convenience.

Mortar Board

Stressing the attainment of scholarhip, leadership and service on the UW ampus, the members of Mortar Board, enior women's honorary, conducted a tandards program during the year 945-46, bringing before the university vomen a discussion of the ideal Wyomng coed.

During Winter and Spring quarters, Mortar Board prepared a recognition st of Sophomore and Freshmen women o be presented, along with the new Mortar Boards, at the annual AWS onor assembly, and in the Spring quarer sponsored the annual Torchlight ing in June, and the Senior women's reakfast.

Big Sisters

Among the service organizations on the campus, Big Sisters is the orientation group for the women students. The purpose is to help freshman girls become acquainted with campus life and procedures, and to make the necessary adjustments in college. Each freshman girl has a Big Sister who is her special adviser whenever she needs assistance.

Besides being of service in these ways, the Big Sisters also sponsor the Coed Costume Ball during winter quarter, and act as hostesses at student-faculty teas throughout the year.

Inter-Fraternity Council

The inter-fraternity council of the University of Wyoming is headed by C. E. Anderson. Each fraternity selects two delegates to sit in this council. These members of the inter-fraternity council work for cooperation among the Greeks, coordination of the different fraternities of the campus, and sponsor the annual Inter-Frat ball.

This year the council, suddenly expanded by the reappearance of seven active fraternities on the campus, was confronted with many problems relative to increasing pledging quotas, period of pledgeship required for returned veterans, and similar questions.

President C. E. Anderson

Pan Hellenic Council

Any woman affiliated with a national woman's fraternity is a member of a larger group called Pan hellenic. On every University campus is a panhellenic council established for the purpose of sponsoring friendly relations and a cooperative spirit between sororities. This council at Wyoming represents the six sororities on the campus and makes rules regarding rushing and supervises rush week activities. Each year a Panhellenic ball is held.

This year the Pan Hellenic group revised the rushing rules in an effort to facilitate rushing and eliminate difficulties; and initiated a junior pan hellenic council for freshman pledges.

Spurs

The Spurs, a national sophomore women's honorary organization, was established on this campus in 1928. It is composed of three outstanding sophomore girls from each organization of the campus.

The group, as a service and pep organization, promotes all student body activities, and fosters loyalty and a spirit of helpfulness among the women students of the campus.

Besides attending all the basketball games in a body and cheering wildly for the champion Cowboys, they supported the World Student Service fund, the Victory Loan drive, contributed to the Infantile Paralysis fund, ushered at assemblies, supported the drive for a special session of the legislature, and contributed to and collected contributions for the Red Cross drive.

The Spurs also sponsored a "Defrigeration Week" with the slogan "Say Halloo to Someone New" in an effort to make this the friendliest campus in the country and to encourage a friendlier spirit among the students.

Iron Skull

Making its first appearance since 1942 was Iron Skull—honorary junior organization. Iron Skull was first organized as a group whose purpose it was to carry on old traditions. Living up to this duty, Iron Skull sponsored the homecoming sing which is an activity that was last conducted in 1942.

The homecoming dance, the first to be held in the gymnasium for some time, was also sponsored by Iron Skull. Officers of the organization are: Phil House, President; Margaret Jean Thompson, Vice President; Bob Burwell, Secretary; Betty Bautch, Treasurer, and Beth Bautch, Senate Representative.

Potter Law Club

The Potter Law Club, organized in 1920, is named in honor of the late Chief Justice Potter, of the Wyoming Supreme Court. It is open to all students and faculty of the College of Law. After two years of inactivity, the club reorganized with 21 students, 3 of whom are women. (Dave Crum was elected chancellor; Joe Maier, Secretary-Treasurer, and Bill Felton, Senator).

Activities of the club are both social and professional. Several moot court trials are held each year to give the students practical experience. The Potter Law Club has always been very active in campus affairs—sponsoring the homecoming Queen elections each year. Also, the club has at least one dinner-dance each quarter, as well as several informal "get-togethers."

Last March an enthusiastic group of art majors for the first time, organized an art majors club and affiliated with the national art fraternity.

The purpose of this organization is to facilitate interest in fine arts at the University, to sponsor art displays and exhibitions, to urge more students to become interested in the University's art curriculum, and to encourage more artistic creation on the part of club members.

John Opper, acting head of the art department, is faculty advisor of the group.

Unionology

Newallyn Reformer

Although the Union is one of the bigger reasons why Cowboy Joe is not a dull boy, the building has just as important function.

The first floor has the faculty lounges and a student post office. The second floor contains the senate chamber, WYO, BI and Alumni offices, plus several meeting rooms. The third floor houses the student infirmary. (Of what use the tower is—God only knows!)

Seasons come and the seasons go, but the Union goes on forever.

And the same can be said for the student parade through the Union lobby. They pause to scan the six by four bulletin board for self-affecting announcements, pick up their Branding Irons on Thursday, sign petitions or vote at the two by three table, or spend five to ten minutes reading the Laramie papers and popular magazines at the sales counter. The fountain room is packed, emptied and repacked harmonizing with the class schedules.

Interspersed throughout the lounge are the loungers (naturally) the bridge players, and an occasional scholar. Directly above the fountain and lounge, the Union ball room offers dancing, recitals and receptions. In the basement you can shoot pool, play ping pong, banquet and sit and talk to the janitor.

It's a well known fact that one of the easier things to do at Wyoming is to major in Unionology!

Winter at

Sandwiched between the "way-showing" fall and "society-filled" spring, is Winter quarter, the meat of the scholastic concoction we call a school year.

Second quarter saw male enrollment once again take the lead after years in the registration cellar.

In January the Cowboys were rated number one team in the nation's basketball picture. They stumbled, but regained their winning ways and finished on top of the Big 7 in addition to placing Milo and Sailors on All-American teams.

With the last home game of the basketball season, Wyoming had its first Homecoming since 1942.

Continually stirred up during the quarter by rumors of army recall, petitions for veterans housing and a special session of the legislature, the student body did everything but write to Mrs. Mayfield.

"Blessings on thee, contented Junior."

Blessing indeed on the junior year for then is a college student most a Joe College or a Betty Coed. Balanced by an established reputation and a whole year ahead to worry about future problems, juniors can work to their head's content on their major or to their heart's content on extra-curricular activities.

Their confident, almost cocky attitude on understudying senior positions all but shouts, "We are ready," and the capable class of '47 IS ready as evidenced by the efficiency and enthusiasm with which they revived the Junior Prom.

Cowboy Hoopsters Ar

Out of the twelve conference games the Cowboys played, Wyoming went down to only two of the teams, the University of Utah and Brigham Young University, to cop the conference championship.

Although it is the custom for the Conference champions to be invited to the NCCA invitational, Jim Weir and Kenny Sailors were considered ineligible to participate in the NCCA since they are graduate students. Immediately after the closing game of the season with Colorado State College at Ft. Collins on March 9, the Cowboys hoop squad disbanded.

Under the able guidance of Coach Everett F. "Ev" Shelton, the University of Wyoming basketball team, as usual, was considered by leading coaches and authorities as one of the best in the nation. Under the new Big 7 Conference ruling, allowing veterans one more year of college eligibility even though they have a degree, the Wyoming Cowboys had many of the key men back who led the squad to a national championship in 1943. Weir, Komenich, Sailors, Reese, and Ray were among those returning men who played on the national champ team.

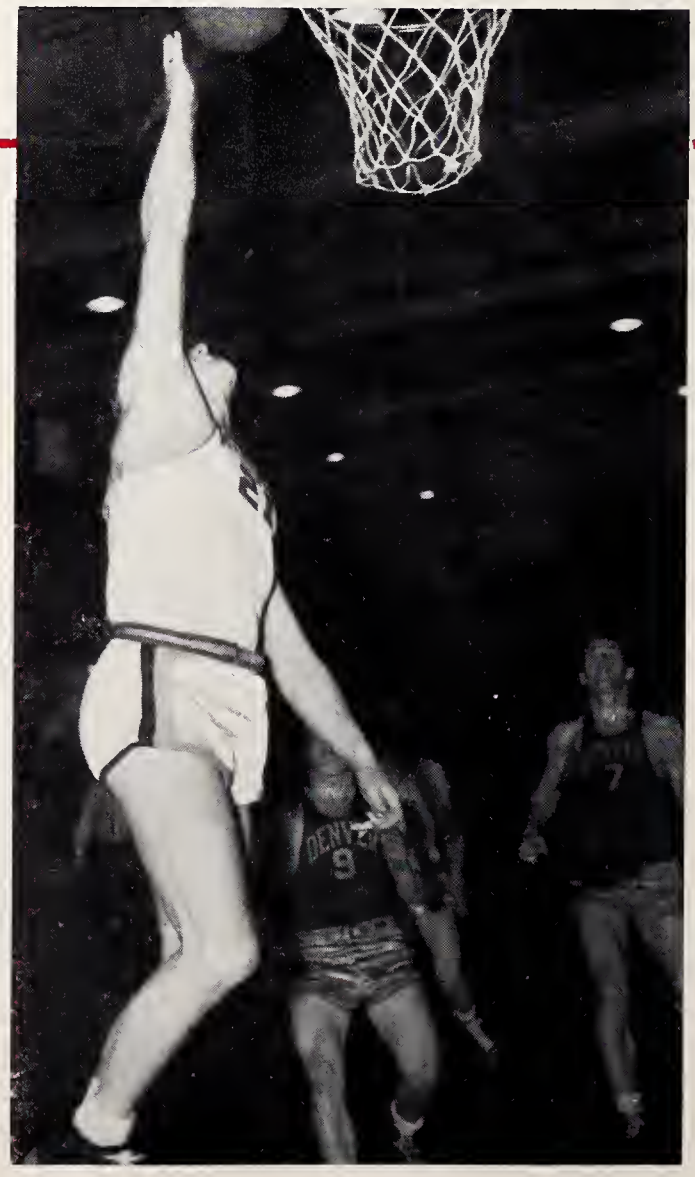
A Basketball Homecoming

For the first time in the history of the University of Wyoming, a basketball homecoming was held. In years past, the gala celebration has been a fall quarter, football homecoming. But this year, since there was no football schedule, the final home basketball game, with CU on March 8 was the annual homecoming.

As it happened, the homecoming game turned out to be the Conference championship game, as CU and Wyoming were tied for first place in the Big Seven conference. And the nice part about it, Wyoming won, 50-46, in a thriller difficult to compare with any other game. The game was dedicated to Milo Komenich, Jim Weir, and Kenny Sailors who, on that night, played their last home game for the University of Wyoming.



Big Jim Weir "lays" one in against Denver university.

Here's the way the Cowboys scored in the homecoming game against C.U.

Komenich	12	0	3	24
Weir	2	0	1	4
Sailors	5	1	2	11
Reese	4	1	1	9
Larsen	0	2	1	2
	23	4	10	50

Jimmie Reese breaks down the floor to score again for ol' Wyoming. Reese's unusual speed and shifty footwork made him one of the best on the Cowboy squad this season.

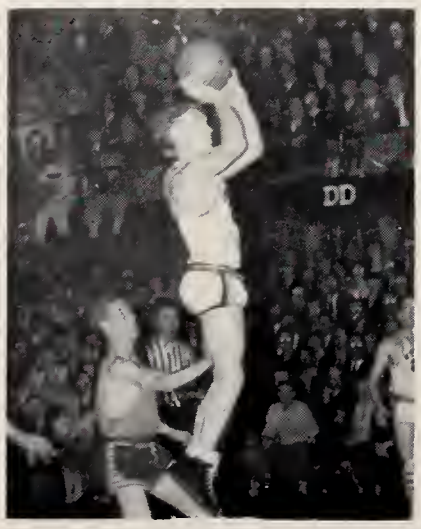
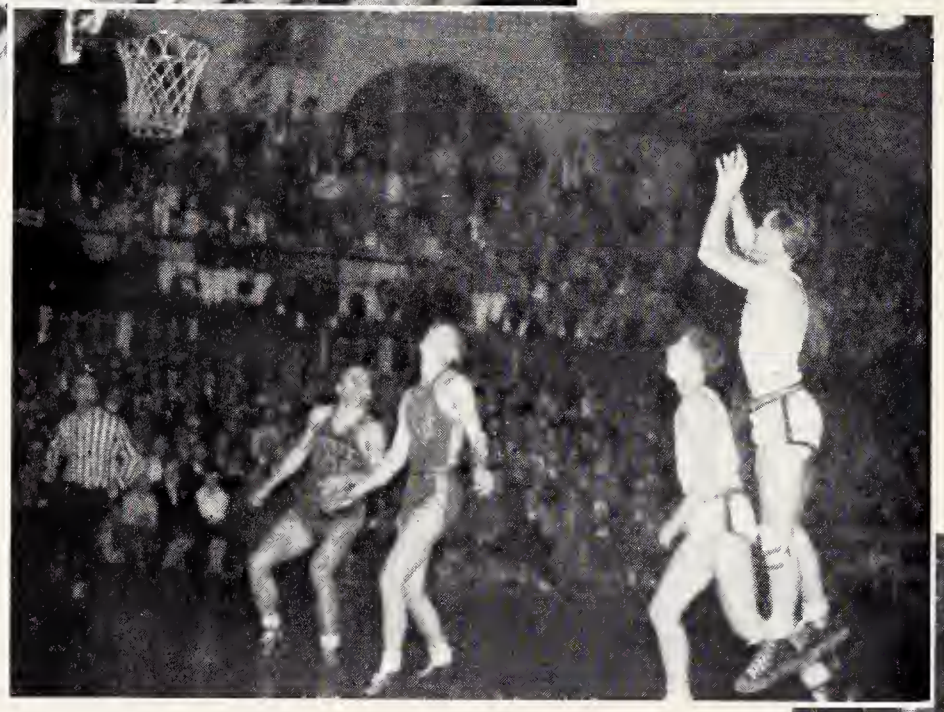
Ted Rogers



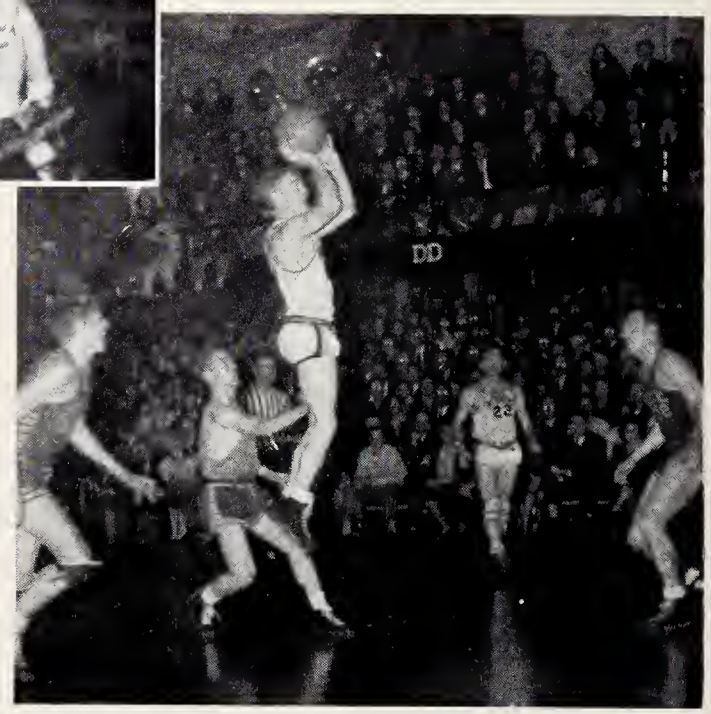
Kenny Sailors

Jim Weir

Jimmie Reese jumps and lets go for two points against Utah State. "Spook" Larson starts in for the rebound. Larson is a freshman from Cheyenne.



Kenny Sailors had too much speed when he tried to lay this one in. Kenny can dribble down the floor with more speed than most people can run.



Sailors has a clear floor in this jump shot against Utah State. Sailors was second high point man for the Cowboys this year, even though he didn't participate in the first five games of the season.

During their 26 game season, the Cowboys dunked 1266 points, for a game average of 48.7 points. Out of the 26 games, the Cowboys lost only 4. Here is an unofficial list of the points the men made:

	FG	FT	TP
Komenich	126	48	300
Sailors	83	38	204
Weir	68	54	190
Reese	66	38	170
Nostrand	37	12	86
Roberts	37	7	81
Brown	24	23	71
Rogers	26	5	57
Larson	23	7	53
Reerink	10	3	23
Ray	7	1	15
Porter	4	1	9
Vivian	2	1	5
Campman	1	0	2
	514	238	1266

This is one of the reasons Sailors is so hard to guard. His terrific speed, his dribbling ability and this famous jump shot make him a triple threat on the hardwood. He was chosen on the All-American team again this year, as he was in 1943.

Komenich easily flips one of his season's record of 126 field goals through the net against Utah U., Sheffield, number 29, attempts to guard the shots. Seldom does Komenich shoot with his right hand.

Komenich jumps and tosses one through the hoop. Sheffield, Utah's star player, watches helplessly.

The University of Wyoming has not had a football team since the fall of '42, but now it's on its way back up the road to pigskin fame. This year the Board of Trustees waited until the last minute to give Coach Bernard F. "Bunny" Oakes, Head Football Coach, the go ahead signal to organize a football team. At this late date it was impossible for Wyoming to organize an efficient football team or even draw up a schedule for Big Seven Conference play.

However, Coach Oakes was able to find forty interested men with gridiron potentialities, who will be the spearhead of the 1946 squad. These forty men are to be complimented on the spirit they showed in continuing to report for practice, although there was no prospect of conference competition in the offing.

With Fall, Winter, and Spring football practice came many grueling weeks of stiff workouts. Just eleven men put on a field together does not compose a strong and winning team. Hours and hours of consistent drilling in the fundamentals of the game such as running, tackling, blocking, passing, receiving and punting makes the eleven men a solid group, with cooperation the main theme throughout.

Football will be back on the Wyoming Campus in the Fall of '46 with the biggest and hottest schedule that the Cowboys ever had. Congratulations to Coach Oakes and his men for their work during the '45 season and we're looking forward to a great team in '46.

The height that pulled the Cowboys through many a tight spot this season.

Jump, Cowboy . . . jump

The Cowboys went on an eastern tour during the Christmas vacation and of the five games played while on the trip, they were undefeated. They met top teams of the nation, including Valparaiso University (twice), St. Joseph's College, Long Island University, and Washington University. Late in January the Punchers went to Oklahoma and played the Oklahoma A and M two games, bowing to the powerful Aggies both times. At the beginning of the season, a tournament was held among the Montana schools, BYU and Wyoming. This unofficial tournament gave Wyoming its first chance to play the schools in Montana.

Wyoming's first Homecoming since 1942 topped all post war revivals. With no intercollegiate football team and a championship basketball team, the date was switched from fall to winter for the first time in the University's history.

Skirted Sig Alphs Carry Banner "Beat C U."

The stage was ideally set for the perfect Homecoming day by both the planning organizations and the basketball wheel of fortune.

Sidewalks were smeared with red, white and blotted out "vote fors," and automobiles were portable black boards.

The jubilee started with the traditional Greeks and Independent sing, Homecoming evening. Even the engineers-kidnapped, lawyers-regained queen and attendant were there!

A strange looking band of Scots (surprise, they're the Sig Alphs) paraded the queen, and attendants; and the ATO's serenaded the Union to highlight the horseplay.

The Alumni registered and wandered. The student body rallied, cheered, and coffee-ed.

The ball game (just the best of the season!) gave 6000 rabid fans the thrill of a twenty point rally to bring the Cowboys from behind and virtually assure them of the Big Seven crown. Oh, yes, Prexy got a stetson, and Brinton got an ovation.

WINTERTIME

CAMPUS

Director Bob Vagner puts band members through a rigorous practice session. session.

Music is one of the most active, and most prominent of University activities.

Never properly appreciated, the band, under the direction of Robert Vagner, presents Sunday afternoon and an occasional evening band concert, takes part in quarterly music assemblies and plays at basketball games, pep rallies and other programs.

Band members are attired in brown and gold uniforms.

Orchestra members rehearse for symphony concert.

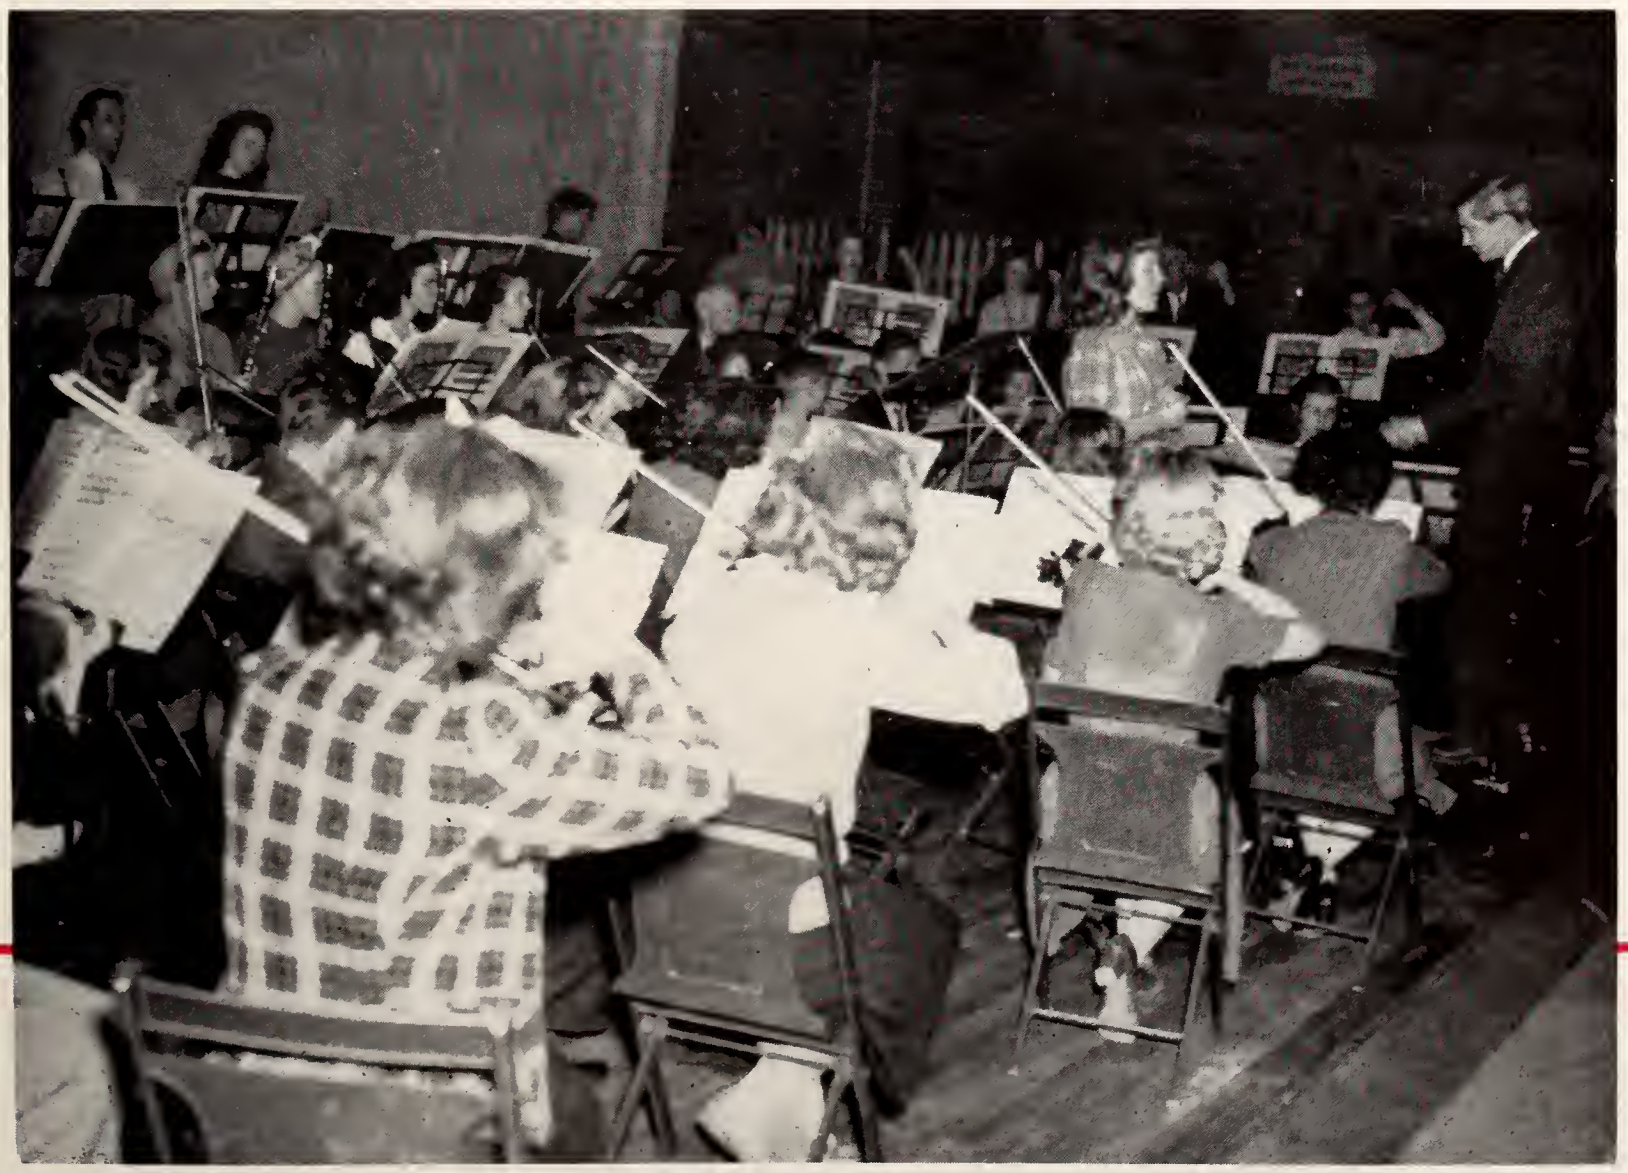
One of the outstanding events of winter quarter was the two hour evening symphony concert program prepared and presented by University orchestra members under the direction of Mr. Willman, head of music department who has returned this year from duty in armed service.

Miss Joann Staats, Miss Del Thomas presented talented vocal and piano solos during the concert.

The University orchestra spent many a weary hour preparing for the outstanding concert symphony.



Girl's Glee

The girl's glee club in cooperation with a cappella choir presented a program of Christmas music the latter part of December.

This organization, under the direction of Miss Ford, a new member of music department staff, has added to cultural attainments of the University by its fine concerts and vocal ensembles.

A Cappella Choir

As the men returned to the campus, the a cappella choir of mixed voices grew rapidly in size and popularity.

In practice sessions, every Tuesday and Thursday night the group makes walls of Old Main and surrounding campus area ring with melodious harmonies.

Drama at Wyoming

One of the most unique and popular of the art techniques used by Mr. Culbertson and his UW dramatists are the penthouse performances staged in Union lobby late afternoons. The audience gathers informally around the stage and coffee is served before the performances.

Winter quarter's pent house production of Ibsen's "Doll's House" featuring Donna Jean Frey, Bob Thompson, Robert Warburton, and Elva Mae Robb was enthusiastically received.

The riotous comedy, "George Washington Slept Here," (starring such veteran UW performers as Patricia Stoddard, Carl Reis and Virginia DelMonte and introducing such newer talent as Tank Warburton, and Velma Walker) which the dramatics department presented under the sponsorship of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary and under the direction of J. Edwin Culbertson, opened a very successful drama season on the UW campus.

Veterans' Club

The Veterans' Club is an organization of about sixty to eighty World War II returnees who have met and combined for the purpose of finding a common ground on which to readjust to the affairs of campus life. The club was begun during the spring of 1945 and has been mounting steadily in membership since. The same as all other campus organizations, it is entitled to one social function each quarter.

During the fall quarter they put on a barbecue dinner that was, a genuine "humdinger," bringing forth nearly every veteran on the campus, as well as a large group of non-veteran boys and girls. Following the barbecue many attended the dance in the Union Ballroom arrayed in the good old western fashion of blue jeans and bright scarfs.

The problem of veteran housing has been met on the UW campus by the erection of trailer park, containing nearly 100 trailer homes, and pre-fabricated government houses, which will accommodate approximately 40 families.

GI housing is directed by Leais Miller, director of the University housing bureau, who works under supervision of and in cooperation with Dr. Humphrey, Mr. Smith and C. B. Jensen, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Men's Residence Hall

The Men's Residence Hall is again in a civil academic service providing quarters for 116 students and scholars. From 1943 to 1946 the Hall, transformed into a military barracks for 250 soldiers, added to the effective War effort of the state and the University. (At present the interior is undergoing a metamorphosis at the hands of painters of buildings and grounds who are rapidly removing evidences of strains resulting from three years war service.

The Hall maintains a social room provided with a wide choice of current literature ample to meet varied interests of residents during any odd spare hours. Also this room provides adequate facility for small social functions as dances and teas which the members may decide to give. President of the hall is Harold Quist who, with five members, constitutes a council which advises the faculty administration on social functions and other matters.

Independent Student Association

The Independent Student Association was organized on the Wyoming campus in 1922. Since that time the club has become a member of the Rocky Mountain Independent Association and the National Independent Association.

Independent members this year are wearing National membership pins for the first time on this campus.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Greta Neubauer, Miss Justine Gentle and Mr. F. A. "Red" Holmes, the group has participated in many activities. Business meetings and mixer dances are held every Monday night and a formal dance each quarter.

The Independent Boys Basketball team won the cup for first place in the intra-mural tournament fall quarter. The Independent candidate Ruth Brinton reigned as Queen during home-coming week end.

American Society of Civil Engineers

The University of Wyoming Student Chapter is the campus organization affiliated with the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Close contact is maintained with varied activities in the profession through the media of joint meetings with the Wyoming Section of the Society, Society-furnished sound films depicting engineering projects and technological subjects, and lectures given by civil engineers experienced in specialized fields.

Upon graduation from an accredited school, such as the University of Wyoming, student members are automatically qualified to become Junior Members in the Society.

Sponsor of the traditional Grid Iron banquet, annual student gripe fest, and the sensational Inkslingers ball, Blue Pencil, honorary journalism organization, is one of the most active groups on the campus. Composed of what is reputedly the greatest idea-provoking league at the University of Wyoming, Blue Pencil is that group most likely to do the unexpected. Typical of its stunts was the presentation of a mammoth ten-gallon Stetson hat to Pres. G. D. Humphrey at the Homecoming game winter quarter.

The war took its toll in Blue Pencil too, with the result that, with the exception of faculty members, membership this year was composed entirely of the female species.

Quill Club

Quill is the college literary society in which membership is gained through submitting manuscripts to club critics.

This year, in cooperation with History Club, Quill sponsored the appearance of Mrs. Mary Hobart Nourse, noted modern novelist; and entertained Mrs. Olga Moore Arnold, at one meeting.

This fall, under the capable guidance of Dr. Ruth Hudson, newly elected faculty sponsor, the club has gained many new members and is striving to give to these members much more active aid in the field of literary improvements.

Stellar performers in these productions included Patricia Stoddard, Carl Reis, Virginia Del Monte, and Donna Jean Frey. Initiation ceremonies were held for Miss Frey, Helena Joslin, Robert Warburton and Dave Savage on Tuesday, February 19, 1946.

Psi Chi is a national honorary society in psychology founded September 4, 1929, at New Haven, Connecticut.

This year the group, numbering around 25, sponsored several open meetings. Lt. Fred Morgan, alumnus of Psi Chi, spoke on his experiences abroad. Dr. R. H. Bruce gave an illustrated lecture on training Naval cadets to identify ships and planes. Dr. A. H. Hilden, sponsored jointly by Alpha Epsilon Delta and Psi Chi, showed films depicting the work of the Child Research Council in Denver and Prof. W. E. Stevens discussed the contributions of army experience to industrial psychology. Social hours were held at the homes of psychology department faculty members after some of these meetings.

Phi Gamma Nu

The school year of 1945-46 for Theta Chapter of Phi Gamma Nu, national professional commerce sorority, began with a report by Shirley Baker on the National Phi Gamma Nu convention which was held in Chicago last June.

Other interesting variations to regular meeting routines included an address by Dr. Ruth Hudson, "The Woman in the Business World;" Christmas party; Rushing tea; staging of Commerce Carnival, pledging of 39 new pledges; and showing of films relating to secretarial members' work.

Miss Lynn Straub is sorority sponsor; and Miss Beth Lee is alumnae representative.

P. E. Majors Club

In the building of a better America, a strong and alert civilian population, women's physical education programs play a large part.

The P. E. Majors Club was organized this year by the women students majoring in physical education to further these aims, and to bring the idea of the importance of activity in gaining physical health to other students on the campus.

Agriculture Club

President John Farmer

Serving to promote interest and activity in every phase of agricultural work is the Agriculture club, whose membership is open to all students enrolled in the college of agriculture. Yearly this active organization sponsors the Little International Exposition and helps finance the stock judging teams, holds an annual banquet and spring picnic, as well as playing host to the state FFA delegates who participate in the state livestock judging contests, crops contest and farm mechanics contest. John Farmer is president of the organization.

This fall, the Ag club revived the Harvest Moon ball, which had not been held since 1942, thus sponsoring one of the most successful dances of all quarter.

Alpha Epsilon Delta

Alpha Epsilon Delta was established on the University of Wyoming campus on January 21, 1939. An organization very much like Alpha Epsilon Delta was Theta Nu, but this organization was dropped when Alpha Epsilon became a national organization.

Students elected to Alpha Epsilon Delta must have high scholastic standing, recommendable character and be carrying the courses required for pre-medical training.

Commerce Club

The Commerce club at the University of Wyoming, made up of all the students enrolled in classes in the Commerce division, plus faculty advisors, has prided itself on being one of the biggest and best organizations on the campus.

The commerce carnival is one of the largest dances of the season. Besides the dance, concessions of all kinds (bingo, fish pond, roulette, and punch stand) are included for student amusement. From the proceeds of this carnival an annual steak fry is held spring quarter.

President Kathryn Morrow

Gamma Sigma Epsilon

Theta Alpha chapter of Gamma Sigma Epsilon, national honorary chemical fraternity, was installed on the Wyoming campus on May 25, 1932. The national organization was founded at Davidson college, North Carolina in 1919.

The fraternity seeks to advance the cause of chemical education, and membership in the organization is open to chemistry majors with high scholastic averages. A large number of faculty members in the field serve as honorary members.

Grand Alchemist Virginia DelMonte

President James Baker

During the fall quarter, Miss Lois Crozier, national Student Christian association representative, came to the University and organized the Wyoming chapter of SCA.

The Student Christian association, an organization composed entirely of University students, is a part of Y.W.C.A.-Y.M.C.A. groups. The main purpose of the group is to better the feeling among groups on the campus and to show students the modern approach to religion.

The group, though newly organized, has gone quite a way in obtaining funds for a chapter house and permanent directors, held dances during the year and sponsored their first spring quarter picnic on the Snowy Range in May.

Dr. G. H. Starr and Miss Greta Neubauer are faculty advisors of this new organization.

Student Christian Association

THE NEWMAN CLUB of Wyoming University is an organization which provides for Catholic students, religious study, education and social activities.

Established in Laramie about 1921 and reorganized and expanded in 1935, it is affiliated with the Intermountain Province of Newman Clubs and the National Federation of Newman Clubs.

Retreats, lectures and study clubs as well as parties, dances and picnics are conducted for the 186 Catholic students on the campus. They have organized a bowling league of four outstanding teams.

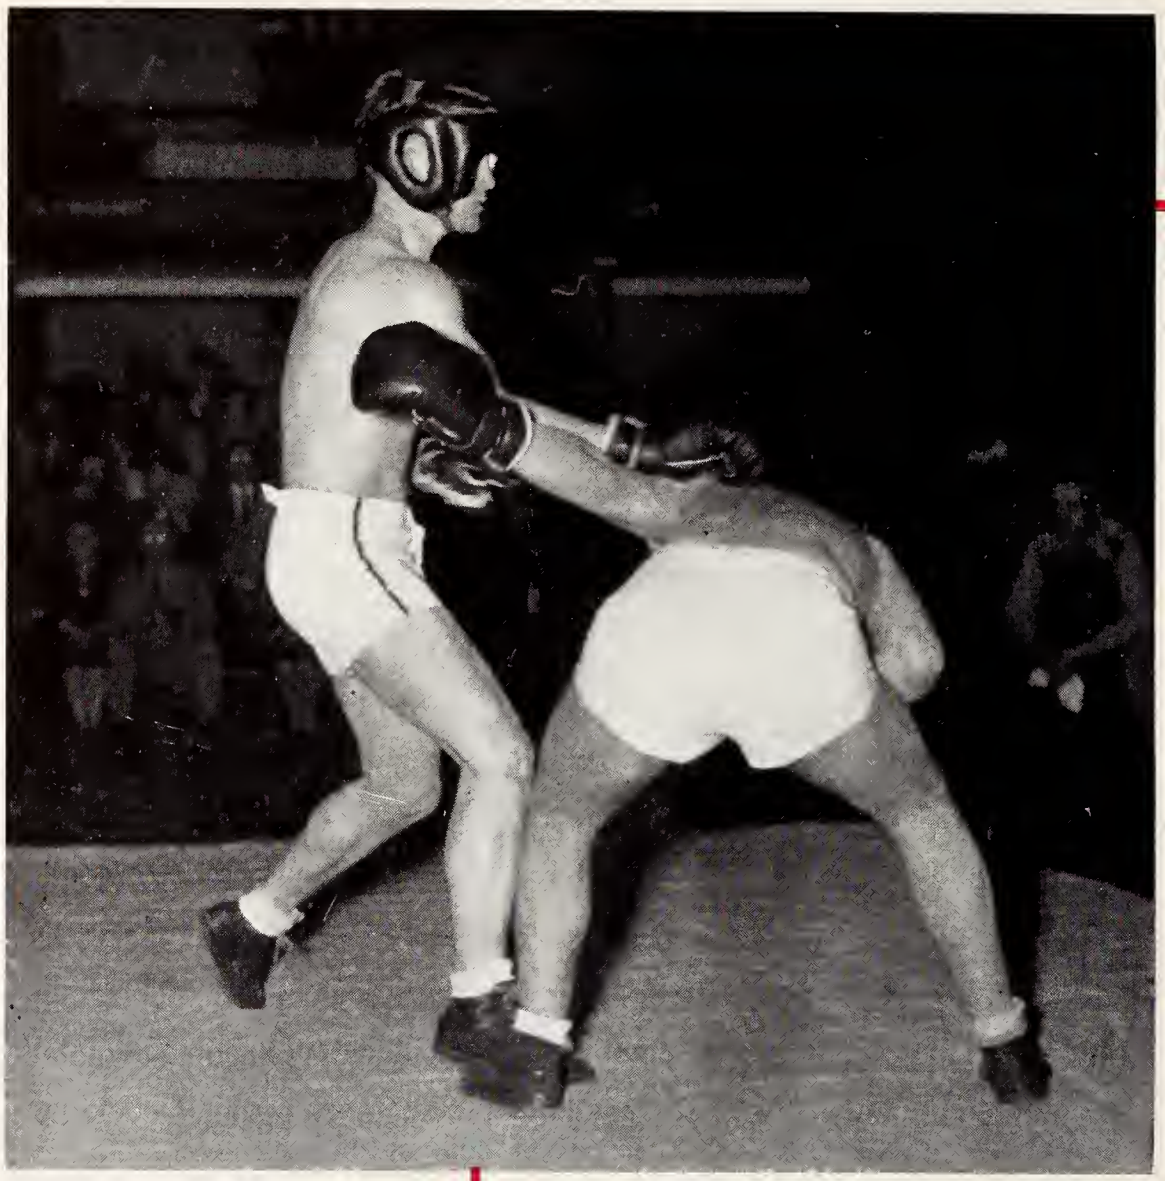
Intra Mural Sports

This year a full program of intramural sports was started again by the physical educational department. R. G. "Randy" Watkins is the director and head of intramural activities.

During the fall quarter, touch football, and basketball, were the sports participated in by the various organizations. Besides the seven fraternities, the independents and the LDS chapter competed for the intramural crown.



Boxing exhibition staged between halves of Cowboy game.

Cowboy clothes are still popular on Cowboy campus and the spring Intercollegiate Rodeo, June 1st and 2nd is one of Spring quarter highlights.

In winter quarter swimming, boxing, wrestling, ping pong were the intramural sports. At the end of winter quarter, the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity was first with 46.66 points.

In spring quarter the sports played by intramural organizations were baseball, tennis, golf, volleyball, and track and field events.

In intramurals, the director was very careful to see that certain workout requirements were filled before a boy could enter into strenuous sports. Boxing, wrestling, swimming, and track and field events required 16 workouts before a participant could enter into competition.

Skiers at Wyo

"Sody," the Skimaster

What . . . in a Snowbank?

Off for a Big Day

She Really Skiis!

Green But Game

With the reorganization of the University Ski Club, headed by Tommy Bell; and the staging of the March Ski Carnival on the Snowy Range ski run, the greatest of winter thriller sports has come back into its own on the Cowboy campus.

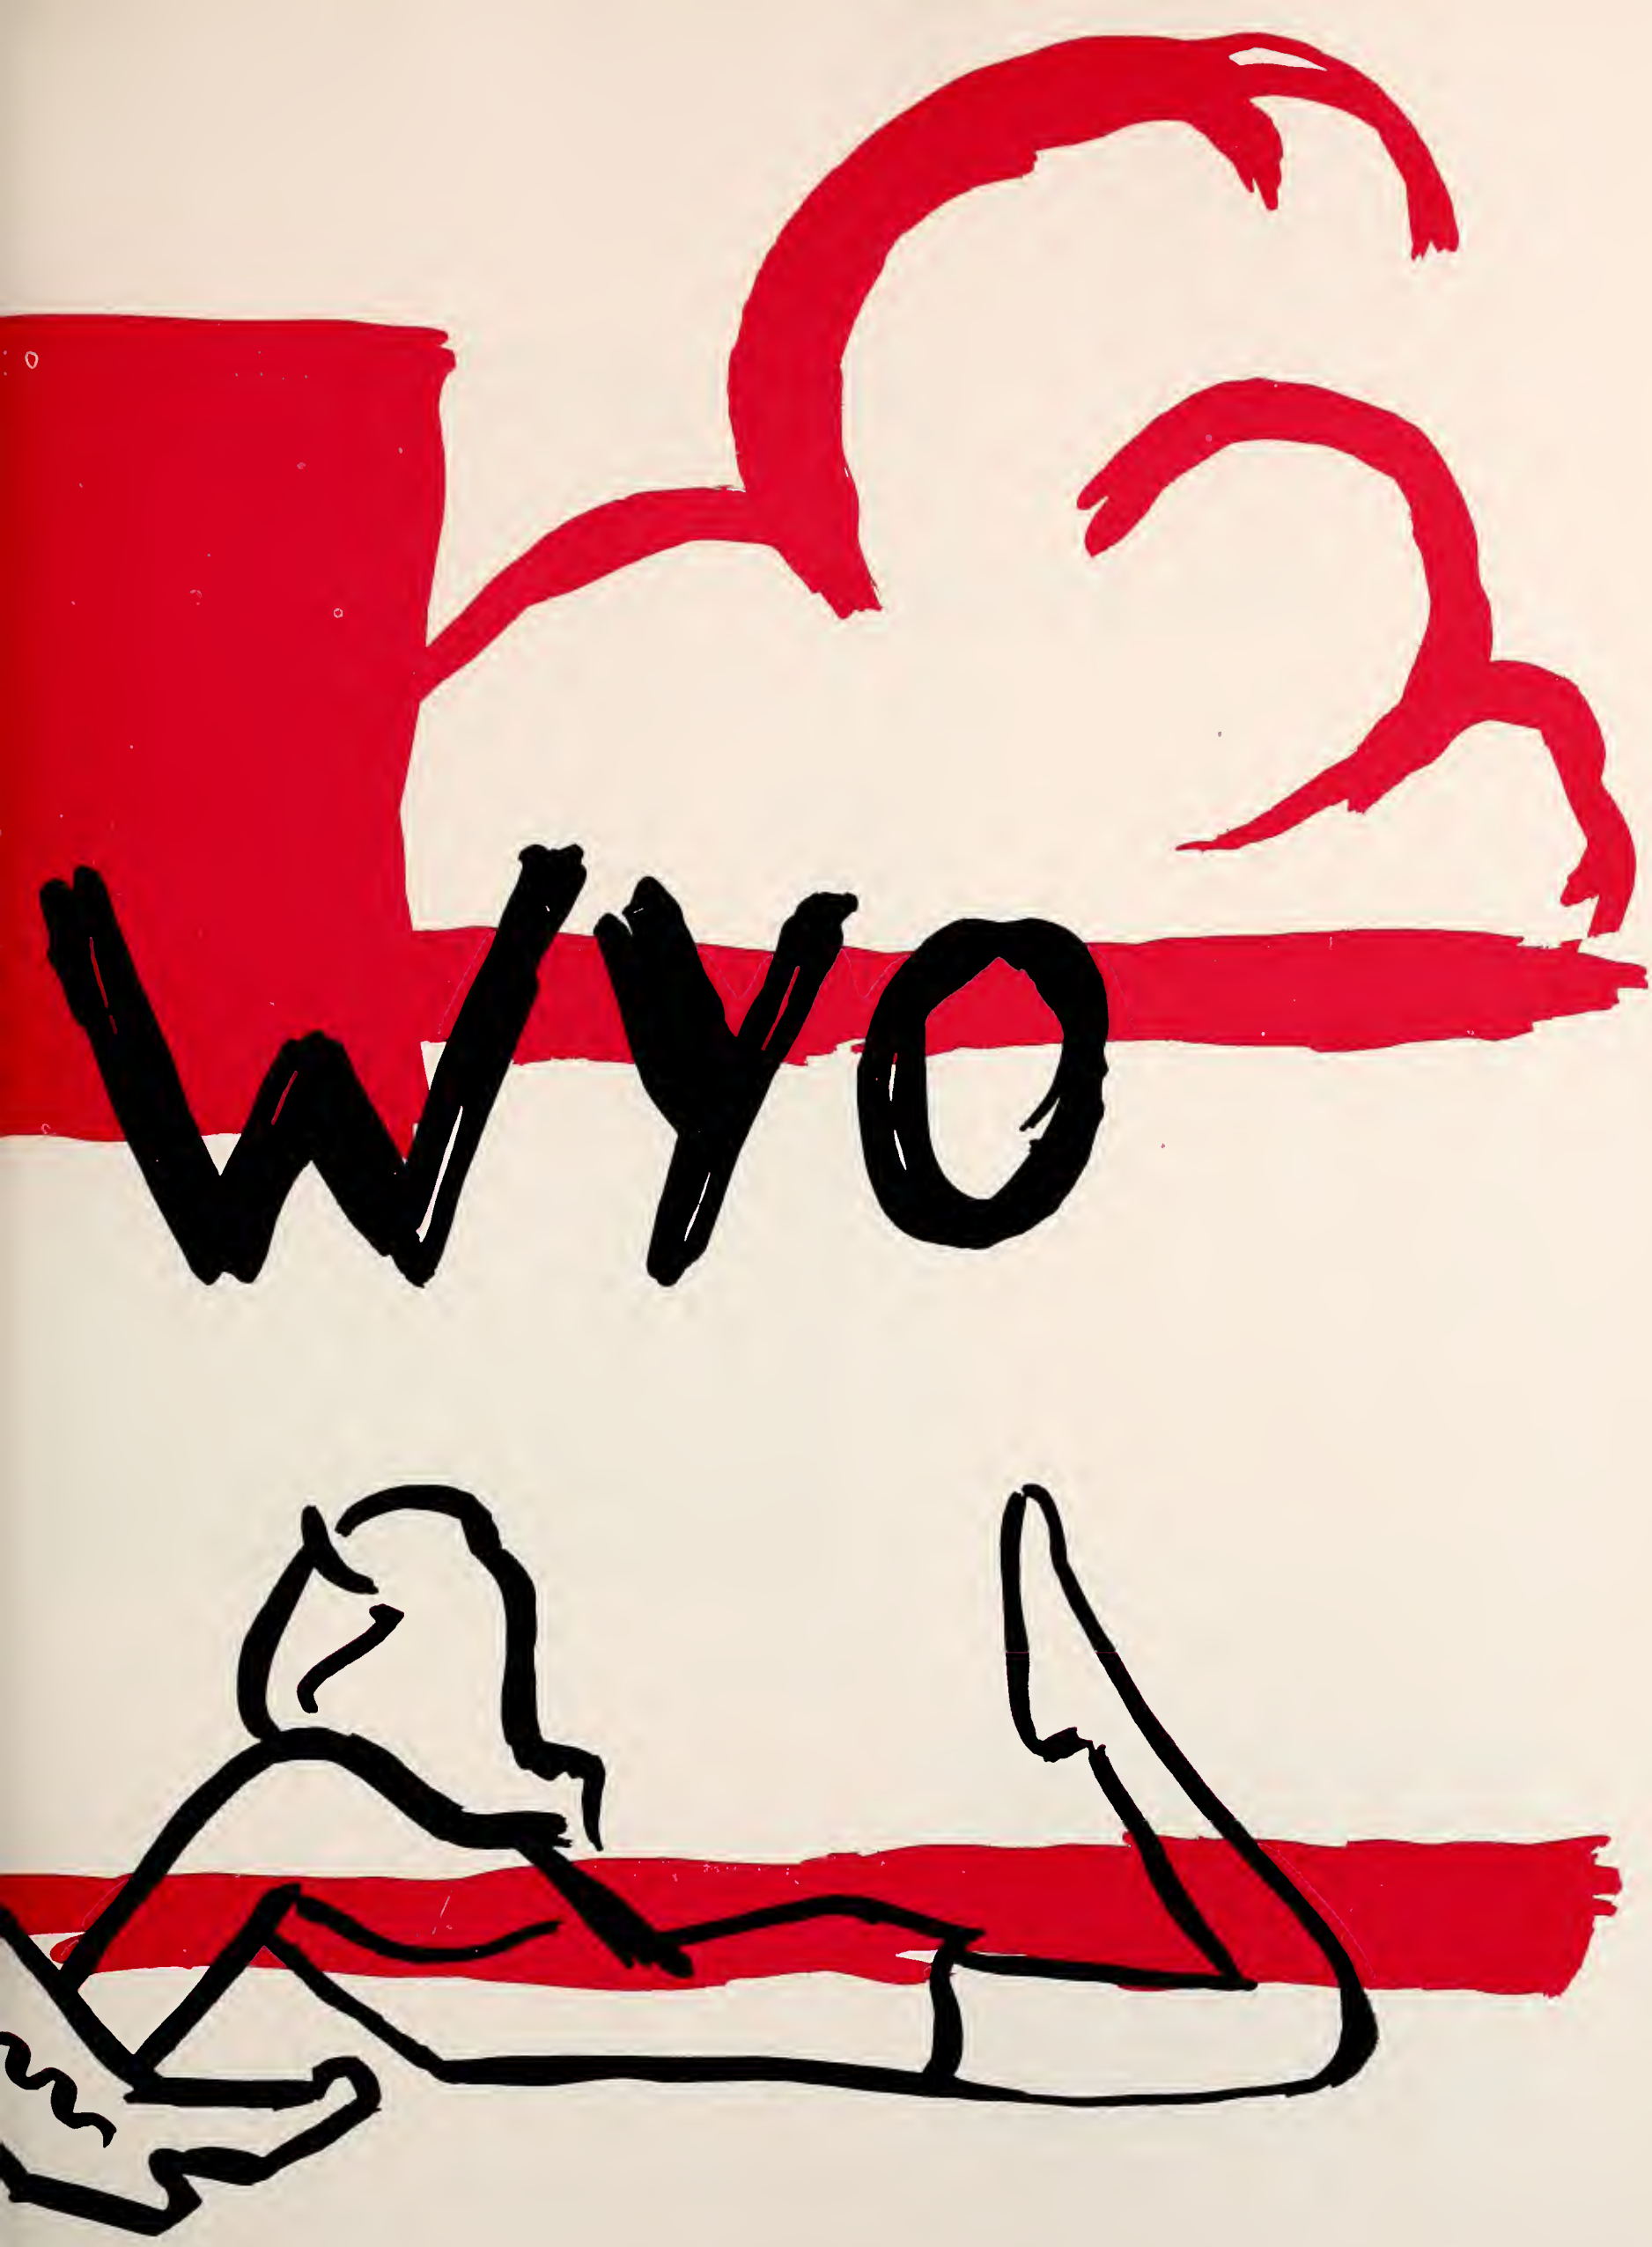
Ski classes, curtailed during the war, were started again this winter, and Instructor James Larsen had a truck load of eager enthusiasts three days a week for the afternoon jaunts to the Happy Jack ski hill.

Spring

Spring quarter rightfully belongs to the seniors. They have for the past eleven chapters, promised themselves that in the conclusion they'd pull their irons out of the fire and temper them in a bucket of beer.

And when the freshmen, sophomore and juniors lean toward the iron dunking too, spring quarter becomes nothing less than a social life riot.

Blue pencil's Inkslinger's ball complete with an Earl Carroll picked queen, appropriately got spring quarter underway. Picnics, dances and more picnics rounded it out. Naturally the perennial spring favorites were back; the overflowing irrigation ditches, the greening campus and cottonwoods, and the minor sports.



WYO

The Seniors

Herewith the senior class: triumphant but tired from the past, pressed and perplexed by the future.

With mild surprise they've found themselves fully capable of handling the campus contracts, of editing student publications and of governing the Greeks.

But they're not at all sure that life is going to be like that. They realize that they've been here long enough (witness the staggering number of credit hours) but they're amazed at what four years of dabbling doesn't cover.

The class of '46 can well afford to look back with relaxation. They've seen the University through three years of war and one year of reconversion. They've reconciled themselves to the coming and going of the Army and Navy training programs, and the going and coming of the men on the campus.

But the class of '46 is also looking ahead, only here they must do it individually.

Delta Delta Delta

The stars and crescent emblem, accentuated by three gleaming pearls and golden trident, has become the symbol of outstanding recognition in Delta Delta Delta in campus activities on the University of Wyoming campus.

The White house in Fraternity Park, home of fellowship and achievement, has among its membership, leaders in Blue Pencil, honorary journalism society, Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, Big Sisters, Junior service organization, A.S.U.W. Senate, Spur, sophomore honorary, and three choices for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Following the first celebration of Homecoming during the last three years, Tri Delta proudly added a new cup to their trophy case, with the inscription . . . "Sorority First Place, Homecoming Sing, 1946."

Women's intramural sports competition under the auspices of the Women's Athletic Association, is keen and interest in the intra sorority and independent group contests in swimming, volley ball, basketball, base ball, and tennis, and bowling seldom lags.

Names of winning teams are placed on a plaque in the P. E. department.

Juana Feltner,
president
of P. E. Majors Club

Girls

In addition to the ever popular sports already mentioned, many girls this winter have become interested in skiing, and enrolled for the course, learned elementary snow plow and christi turns from Instructor Jim Larsen and supplemented the three hour class period with Sunday skiing at Snowy Range.

Down But Not Out

Miss Ruth Campbell, head of women's P. E. department, and Miss Louise Thouin, popular P. E. instructor, take a busman's holiday and go skiing.

WHY NOT HAVE FREE ENTERPRISE?

One of the great privileges of the American people has always been the freedom to conduct their own affairs without regimentation and subject only to careful regulation.

During the war it was necessary for the common good to surrender part of this freedom and submit to strict government control by various agencies such as W.P.B. and O.P.A.

Permanent control of an individual's actions either by bureaucratic agencies or by governmental ownership of business destroys personal incentive and initiative. If the freedom of individual thought and action for which Americans have always fought is to be maintained, it is essential that private enterprise be continued. To give up private enterprise is to surrender freedom for socialistic slavery.
